

Diamond

differences among the polynesian islands - developed separately

- different groups required to use the resources they were surrounded by
- societies with agriculture were more developed
- more technology, less isolated

what influenced agriculture

location of land

- climate, latitudes

- water sources

- end of the ice age

} good recipe for agriculture

Three C's

Control

Connection

Change

How can we apply the three C's to the reading concept of owning land } connection controlling resources

laws

agriculture is not the focus of society

} change

agriculture

Creation stories

explains peoples actions

explains religious beliefs or beliefs in general

The most important thing to understand after discussing these stories is that different societies have different beliefs in the way things were created.